From Archdeacon of Dudley, Nikki Groarke

Whether you are the sort to make new year's resolutions or not, January is certainly a good time to reflect on what the year ahead might hold, to refocus on our priorities, both personally and as churches together. Having set priorities as a diocese, mapped out a plan for the rest of the decade, it may feel unnecessary to revisit them. However, as someone reminded me when I spoke recently of our 'nine-year plan', we are now already two years in. There are only seven years left to achieve all we set out to accomplish by 2030, which is a challenging thought!

In those seven years we aim to:

- Double the number of children and young people worshipping in our churches.
- Create 100 new worshipping communities offering a range of ways for people to come to faith and worship God. (e.g. Forest Church / Café Church / Walking Church).
- Invest in the renewal of around a dozen churches to ensure that each major area of population has at least one church with 150 people attending weekly, enabling them to support other local churches.
- Underpin these by investing in our clergy and lay leaders, providing training and development opportunities to enable them to grow and feel supported and equipped for mission.

If your church hasn't yet identified priorities to focus on, it may be helpful to do some thinking around some of these. Most of our churches could benefit from engaging more with children and young people, and many could start a new worshipping community. If you want to grow and be better equipped for mission, why not explore the training and development opportunities on offer to help with this as one of your personal new year's resolutions, and encourage others to do the same?

Many churches are working with a Mission Accompanier to help discern what their priorities locally might be, and there is still opportunity to sign up to the scheme, if you haven't yet started on a journey together towards the formation of a Health and Sustainability Plan.

And of course, in addition to that, we can all make some resolutions about our own personal well-being, making space to do the things which will help us to flourish and be content. That may be about more time with family and friends; getting out into the fresh air more often; being more environmentally friendly, or, in my case, running a marathon!

Whatever you resolve and prioritise, I pray that you will join me in fixing our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, (

Nikki Groarke

In our Thoughts and Prayers

Find rest, O my soul in God alone; my hope comes from him. He alone is my rock and my salvation; he is my fortress, I shall not be shaken. Psalm 62.5-6

As we enter the New Year, we do so in a world in which there is much unhappiness and uncertainty and in which it is easy to lose hope. It is important therefore to remember that some things do not change, and above all, it is the strength that comes from God in which we seek our hope.

*Grant, O God, that amidst all the discouragements, difficulties, dangers, distress, and darkness of this mortal life, we may depend upon your mercy and on this build our hopes, as on a sure foundation. Let this living God deliver us from despair both now and in the future. Amen.

In the coming year there is likely to be an election for which an important issue is the subject of immigration. Let us remember all those who have already arrived and settled here and are contributing positively to our society.

*We pray for Christians from other lands who have come to these shores, and especially for those who have made their homes here. May their faith not be shaken by the irreligion of so many in this country but grant that they may live as faithful followers of Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity takes place during January. Let us pray that all the churches may work closer together for the benefit of all.

Lord Jesus, who prayed that all might be one, we pray to you for the unity of all Christians. May your Spirit enable us to experience the suffering.

*caused by division, to see our sin and in the unity of the Spirit, to be guided into all truth. Amen.

Sunday School Books

Whilst clearing out the office loft, a number of Junior Quest books have been found. We think that these were completed in the past by local children, either as part of Sunday School or Confirmation classes.

Before they are disposed of, we would like to give these children (now adults) the opportunity to have them back. If anyone knows any of these names, can you pass on this opportunity to them, please either let them know or give the information to the Office. The names may bring back some memories!!

St Mary the Virgin, Sedgeberrow

By the time you read this we will have had a busy December.

Our coffee mornings are still going well, the next one is on Thursday 22 February at 10am.

We wish you all a very peaceful New Year.

1 January-The Naming of Jesus

Matthew and Luke tell how the angel instructed that Mary's baby was to be named Jesus - a common name meaning 'saviour'. The Church recalls the naming of Jesus on 1 January - eight days after 25 December (by the Jewish way of reckoning days). In Jewish tradition, the male babies were circumcised and named on their eighth day of life.

For early Christians, the name of Jesus held a special significance. In Jewish tradition, names expressed aspects of personality. Jesus' name permeated His ministry, and it does so today: we are baptised in the name of Jesus (Acts 2:38), we are justified through the name of Jesus (1 Cor 6:11); and God the Father has given Jesus a name above all others (Phil 2:9). All Christian prayer is through 'Jesus Christ our Lord', and it is 'at the name of Jesus' that one day every knee shall bow.

The name Jesus is a transliteration of a name that occurs in several languages. It is of Hebrew origin, 'Yehosua', or Joshua. There is also the Hebrew-Aramaic form, 'Yesua'. In Greek, it became 'Ἰησοῦς' (Iēsoûs), and in Latin it became 'Iesus'.

The meaning of the name is 'Yahweh delivers' or 'Yahweh rescues', or 'Yahweh is salvation'. No wonder the angel Gabriel in Luke (1:26-33) told Mary to name her baby Jesus: "because He will save His people from their sins."

6 January – Epiphany

On 6 January we celebrate Epiphany - the visit of the Wise Men to the baby Jesus.

But who were these Wise Men?

No one knows for sure.

Matthew calls them 'Magi', and that was the name of an ancient caste of a priestly kind from Persia.

It wasn't until the third century that they were called kings - by a church father, Tertullian.

Another church father, Origen, assumed there were three - to correspond with the gifts given.

Later Christian interpretation came to understand gold as a symbol of wisdom and wealth, incense as a symbol of worship and sacrifice, and myrrh as a symbol of healing - and even embalming.

Certainly Jesus challenged and set aright the way in which the world handled all three of these things.

Since the 8th century, the Magi have had the names Balthasar, Caspar and Melchior.

Week of Prayer for Christian Unity 18 -25 January 2024

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity runs from 18 - 25 January in 2024 and is an international Christian ecumenical observance. With roots going back over 100 years, the dedicated time of prayers has been jointly commissioned and prepared since 1966, by the Roman Catholic Church and the World Council of Churches.

Each year ecumenical partners in a different region are asked to prepare the materials. This year the churches of Burkina Faso have invited us to join with them in a process of self-reflection as they consider what it means to love our neighbour in the midst of a security crisis. Using the parable of the Good Samaritan the reflections explore how we find our common identity in the experience of God's love. As well as the need to place love at the centre of the quest for peace and reconciliation.

Resources for the week can be found on the Churches Together in Britain and Ireland's website: <https://ctbi.org.uk/resources-for-week-of-prayer-for-christian-unity-2024/>

Reflecting Faith: God's Acre

The Revd Dr Jo White continues her series on the meanings in church buildings.

I thought we'd spend a few months at the start of this New Year considering the outside of a church building, and the gardens around it.

For many churches this will include a churchyard, though not necessarily. If your church does stand in a churchyard, then it may be what is known as a 'closed' one, meaning that burials and interments no longer take place other than within an existing family grave. An 'open' churchyard is one where burials and interments are still able to take place.

The maintenance for open churchyards is the responsibility of the church, whilst once closed (which, for Church of England churches, has to be agreed by Parliament) the maintenance is passed to the local or parish civil council.

These days, with the many financial cutbacks, Councils often try to refuse to take on a churchyard. But as it is a statutory obligation, they have no choice, and many will simply reduce the number of grass-cutting sessions to fit their slimmed budget.

Churchyards have not always looked as they do today, with memorial stones of varying shapes and sizes. Originally, they were simply left grassed and in towns this became one of the few green areas. People were buried there without any permanent marker being placed, nor any other official record of placement kept.

The thinking was that their life here on earth had ended and the person was now with God in heaven. Only those people in 'God's kingdom' would be allowed to be buried in the consecrated grounds, so anyone who had taken their own life, or unbaptised babies, would not be allowed.

Church buildings are usually built facing east - the place of the rising sun - and the people's entrance is on the south wall. This gives access to the churchyard from the south, and in European countries that means your first experience of entering the churchyard and the building is on its sunny side.

It was common practise to bury to the south of the church, as this was the lighter and warmer side. The richer and more influential folk would request to go as near to the altar - the Holy of Holies - as possible; even if that was outside the building itself.

Over the course of time folk wanted - and richer folk could afford - a marker for where their loved one lay. This idea of having a permanent marker reflected the attitudes at the time, of visiting the place of rest specifically marked.

This month

Try and visit a churchyard with very old memorials. Have a look at all the different materials, styles, wording and embellishments. What message do they give to you?

The Big Idea - Genesis

This is the first of a new series aimed at providing an overview of the Bible. This month we consider the first book, Genesis.

As the title suggests, Genesis is primarily about beginnings. In chapters 1-11, it records the creation of the heavens and the earth and human beings; marriage and family; sin's effect on society and the world. The following chapters record God's dealings with Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Joseph, and their families. In this story of the Patriarchs we see God establishing a people called to bless the world, as He blesses them.

The book of Genesis is key to understanding the whole Bible. It is supremely about relationships; the relationships between God and the created order, God and human beings, and between human beings themselves. Fundamentally man has been created in the image of God, so that he can relate to God in a personal way: 'God created man in His own image, in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them' (1:27). However, Genesis plots how this relationship was broken by sin, when Adam and Eve disobeyed God, resulting in the fall of human beings and the created order. By creating people with free will, God risked the possibility that they might reject Him. This is inherent in His love for human beings.

In Genesis, God enters into covenants with the world (the rainbow following the flood) and with Abraham and his descendants (circumcision), pledging His love and faithfulness to them and calling them to respond to Him in faith. It reminds us that God is fundamental to living. Without a sense of the centrality of God's place in our lives, we can never get our lives right.

Firstly, a Happy New Year to everyone and we do hope you all had a lovely Christmas.

December is always an extremely busy time at St Andrew's with all the Christmas celebrations.

Reception and Year 2 children performed their nativity wonderfully; they made their parents, carers and staff very proud.

Year 5 performed their traditional Christmas Carol Service at St Andrew's Church. We were so pleased to see so many parents in Church to listen to our service. All the children read the passages from the Bible which were chosen to tell the story of Jesus' birth. The children's singing was amazing.

Our Nursery children also impressed their parents and carers with their wonderful singing voices at their Carol Concert.

The PTFA very kindly organised a School Christmas Fete, which was very well attended; lots of money was raised for our wonderful School.

Also in December, some of our pupils assisted Mrs Simpson to arrange the Nativity scene, which was proudly displayed in the school entrance. It was a wonderful opportunity to reflect upon the true reason we celebrate Christmas - the birth of Jesus.

In the last week of term, lots of our children wore a Christmas or winter jumper just for fun! We even had a visit from the man himself....yes, the real Father Christmas!

We are now looking forward to an exciting new term. The New Year is always a special time in a school. At St Andrew's we celebrate the period of Epiphany by looking forward to new beginnings and the exciting times that lie ahead.

Doing small things for God

By Bob Peters Chairman of the Association for Church Editors

Some time ago I met a shop fitter. He had just finished refurbishing a large London department store as a member of one of two teams of fitters. The work had to be done overnight with each team doing identical halves of the shop. You can imagine the competition between them. One team, who decided it was a simple job, set to work immediately and rapidly their half took shape.

The other team unwrapped all their boxes and then sat around talking for about an hour, then they sent someone out for some food and not a single unit was assembled for almost two hours. By midnight the first team had almost everything set up while the first team still had little to show.

Then disaster struck. The first team discovered a fundamental mistake and all their display units had to be taken apart and rebuilt, it was going to be difficult for them to be ready by opening time.

Meanwhile, the second team worked steadily and finished in plenty of time to enjoy breakfast as they waited for the others to catch up. Their success lay in the first two hours when they carefully studied the instructions and worked out how everything should be assembled before a screwdriver was taken out of their toolbox.

Taking time to think before acting is a useful lesson for us all to learn. It's a lesson that can be applied to everything we do including our Christian faith (and especially editing our magazines!) First, we need to study our instructions found in the Bible, then make time to think about what God is saying to us through its pages, and then act in a steady, well thought out manner, just as the second team did. That way we can achieve much more for God in the world around us.

This reminds me of a talk by Lord George Carey just after he retired as Archbishop of Canterbury. He urged all Christians to do small things for God where we live, in that way we could all make the wider world a much better place.

Remembering Clarice Cliff

If you like ceramics, and enjoy colour, then you are bound to be familiar with the work of Clarice Cliff. Her glowingly vibrant plates, cups, teapots, and vases are world famous – and still loved.

She was born 125 years ago this month, on 20th January 1899, in Tunstall, Stoke-on-Trent. Clarice's father worked in an iron foundry, and her mother washed clothes to help feed their seven children.

Clarice left school at 13 to work in the potteries. She so enjoyed the work that at 17, she moved on to the factory of A J Wilkinson in Newport, Burslem, to gain more experience. Soon she was modelling figurines and vases, keeping pattern books, and learning to hand-paint ware.

Clarice's talent was noticed, and then encouraged by one of the factory owners, Arthur Colley Austin Shorter. As the years went by, he enabled her to go to the Royal College of Arts and then study in Paris. He gave her own studio, and later he married her.

Clarice's use of colour was immensely popular. Her brilliantly coloured plates, cups, vases, and teapots helped cheer people up during the Depression. Clarice's shapes were also eye-catching: sometimes 'Modern', with angular and geometric lines; sometimes 'Art Deco' – with abstract and cubist patterns.

By 1930, Cliff was Art Director at Newport pottery. She went on to have a worldwide impact, as her patterns, shapes and colours sold in large quantities in many countries.

Her most famous quote was: "Having a little fun at my work does not make me any less of an artist, and people who appreciate truly beautiful and original creations in pottery are not frightened by innocent tomfoolery."

After Clarice's death, Wedgwood came to own the Clarice Cliff name. The world record price for a piece of Clarice Cliff is held by Christie's in London, who in 2004 sold an 18-inch (460 mm) 'charger' (wall plaque) in the May Avenue pattern for £39,500.
